

Sundar,

be informed that nobody in Germany is afraid of unknown blue tooth trackers. Please do not terrify my people with your stupid smart phone apps any more. Here in Germany we are used to decide on our own which applications we want to use and which we do not need and therefore not want either.

I believe, I approached you with something similar already once. Today I tell you who I are and then you comply or you are going to be arrested and replaced.

I am the heir of the German empire of 1871. This heritage comprises the britisch commonwealth, formerly empire too, the grand nation france (if you are not aware of it, you certainly know alternatively one of my grand grand grand fathers who was called Louis the sun king (Louis XIV) who built the castle of Versailles without electricity, candle light only and during one single reign. Your grand grand grand papa needed 8 or 9 centuries to build his stupid house with the two arrow-top-formed towers next to river rhine in my otherwise beautiful home town Cologne. And last but not least after the german, british and french kingdoms the heritage comprises the kingdom of Austria Hungary from Vienna. You have certainly already be invited to the biggest waltz dance night on this globe taking place once a year. You did not meet me there since I refused to learn dancing when I was pupil because I came late and there was no lady as student partner available any more. I do not want to receive dance classes in this global public. But you might have met my fiancé. She is the current Pharao and the current Zar. Her further two stems are the impressive to talk about. She knows how to dance every classical dance you would like to invite her to. But only dance, not touch more. I would actually have refrained from adding the last hint since I had assumed it selfcomprehensive. However, your ignorance towards my former E-Mail which could not develop any effect how it seemed lets me doubt your naturality.

You know I am annoyed from being target of a rediculous aggressive copy of my brother. You know, my brother is not my brother but only the body avatar my brother left behind when he was attacked by catholic war wagers in the hospital in which my mother went for his birth. Then they replaced his blood by donated blood along with stem cells of the same donator. This guy, the donator, was an officer of the German army. In 2014 when I had had to endure two stupid traditional ritual years already before in which boredom nearly killed me while curiosity didn't kill the cat after not the cat but my wife was tortured to death during the previous six years ....

((hence, together eight stupid years which were no ritual but evil war years what nobody realised until today - this is why quite many are going to carry the house of your grand grand grand papa (the house I mentioned above) back to the stone break area where it belongs to; then tourists are not visiting Cologne for its monumental cathedral any longer but rather for its innovative natural exhibition of a deconstruction site))

... in which I lost everything in the war, not the alledged ritualised fire, my wife first, then my three children and my lawyers and tax advisors business (I was both, now I do not need it any more, since I have become the richest man on earth) then my rented house since I sold the other one already for the medication which would have saved my wife's life, if she would not have been murdered aggressively or I had known this at least. However, I did not even know that I had received as heritage literally the complete globe since evilly stranger steered victory allies of world wars one and two insisted on my parents to keep silent about my ancestry and anything which would not have to do with my identity of a very centered middle class citizen. This identity is which I knew and it is right. Fully right no mistake in it. However it is only one of two. The other one was not mentioned in order to my heritage be stolen easier after this German army officer who conducted my brothers left behinds was taken off the scene suddenly. You know, nobody informed anybody. He still Existenz but only brain he cannot fly any more. Only drift in the fresh other side air. And if I had not been, nobody had warned me. I did not only warn me but told any body concerned that this army officer was replaced by the first class american fashion advisor Steven Bannon who advised George Jr. Bush on which leather jacket would look most wild west when he had to climb the New York zero (this is when the towers did not stand any more but were not yet transported instead of carried away when it was renamed to ground zero. This is why especially quite many american government and secret service nationals are going to carry now our mess away probably even more than Germans. And they are going to be joined i.e. assisted by their corporate executives such as you, my dear Sundar if you do not react now without stupid questions. You know the content of this E-Mail in this second although it is still going to take a few more seconds until it will reach you.

We are going to terminate the war this week, at the latest this month. You are not preventing us from it. Believe it or do not. Up to you. The consequences are yours too.

Best wishes

Peter

ps excuse any mistakes which look like due to inadequate attention. They only look so, the reason is more inadequate...
